privateclient Top 25 Residential Property Buyer RFR Property has hired Philip Selway as a director, tasked with developing the firm's strategic partners and institutional relationships within the UK and internationally.

Mr Selway has 35 years' experience in the residential property market. He worked most recently as managing partner of Knight Frank's independent buying consultancy, The Buying Solution, before stepping down last year.

RFR's chief executive Richard Rogerson commented: "We are thrilled to welcome a figure of Philip's stature on board, further cementing our reputation for offering premium property advice from the best and most experienced consultants in the industry. The appointment of Philip represents the next stage of our growth in the residential market and we are delighted to offer his experience and expertise to our clients."

Mr Selway added: "I am delighted to become part of this hugely unique project. RFR understands what is required to succeed in an ever changing and dynamic industry. Objective, independent advice has sat at the core of my approach to the property industry ever since I joined it some 35 years ago and it is a philosophy that is aligned to that of this business."

His appointment follows those of William Drake and Philip Keller, design director.

With more than 40 years' combined experience in London residential property, RFR Property provides residential property advisory services to private clients.
